

ABSTRACT

A dental device includes a housing adapted to be positioned over one or more teeth, the housing having a movable dental head adapted to access different areas of the one or more teeth; one or more cameras to capture images of the one or more teeth; one
5 or more dental instruments coupled to the dental head to operate on the one or more teeth; and a conduit to remove debris generated during an operation.